Leo Gerton First to Announce Candidacy for City Council

The first candidate to file his nomination petition for the city council is Leo Gerton, 23-F Parkway. His petition was filed on July 25 with city clerk Nita Maschauer, less than a week after nominations were opened.

Additional candidates, including incumbents, desiring to become candidates in the September 19 election for the five-man council must file petitions containing at least 51 and not more than 86 names of qualified registered voters at the city clerk's office (together with a $3 filing fee). The deadline for filing is August 21.

A voter may sign only one nominating petition, even though he may vote for five candidates. Petition forms may be obtained from the city clerk's office, and Mrs. Mashauer will check the petition for valid signatures and disqualify a voter's signature on the second and all subsequent petitions she receives on which it appears. Married women are asked to sign petitions as Mary Doe, not Mrs. John Doe.

Gerton

Leo Gerton is a long time resident of Greenbelt: he was an original member of the Greenbelt Veteran's Housing Corporation and has resided in the area for 31 years. He is the manager of High's Dairy store in the Greenbelt Shopping

During the years he has lived in Greenbelt, Gerton has accumulated a long record of community and civic service. As zoning committee chairman for Greenbelt Homes, Inc., he was responsible for the development and adoption of policy recommendations. He has also served on the city's Advisory Planning Board and was chairman of its "Committee I", a planning committee for residential, commercial and industrial development. In this capacity, he helped form specific development goals which were later incorporated into the Greenbelt Master Plan.

The implementation of Greenbelt's Master Plan has been one of Gerton's main concerns in the recent past. Working on the steering committee of Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt, he has been active in cases involving planning and zoning in Greenbelt.

Leo Gerton is a Navy Veteran of World War II and belongs to Chapter 23 of Greenbelt's Maryland City Disabled American Veterans and to Post 381 of the Jewish War Veterans. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Twin Pines Savings and Loan Association and of the Greenbelt Freedom of the Press Committee, and also chairman of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee. In the past he was a member of the Greenbelt Library Association, until that organization disbanded when it achieved its aim by securing appropriations for a future Greenbelt Library.

GDC Apartment Rent Still Questioned

Rental fees were again the main topic of discussion at the latest meeting of the Board of Directors of the Greenbelt Development Corporation, wholly-owned subsidiary of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., which operates the apartments on Park-

When GDC was formed in 1954, consideration was given to the financial condition of tenants who were occupying apartments when the apartments were purchased from the Federal Government. Six tenants were granted rental exceptions at that time when it was found that they did not earn enough money to file income tax reports or purchase items on cre-

In 1983, a few more tenants were added to the excepted list and in 1967 three more (who were living in the apartments before 1963) were added as well.

Bill Feller, who explained that he had talked with several Golden Agers, requested that the Corporation reconsider the 71/2% increase on the rental fees this year. He cited the fact that GHI has instituted only a 4% increase in monthly charges this year. One of the Board members countered by noting that this was not the first time charges have been raised for GHI nembers and in fact, the rates have been raised for the last two years.

The meeting adje trned without taking any action.

GHI OPERATIONS CLOSE TO BUDGET

by Al Skolnik

First-quarter operations of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. for 1967 were slightly better than forecast, according to a fiscal report prepared by Don McGinn, GHI comptroller.

Disbursements during the first three months of 1967 were $6,900 less than anticipated at budget time, due primarily to a delayed start in certain maintenance programs for frame homes. Income was $2,200 less, due primarily to reduced receipts from sources other than monthly charges. Thus, the corporation was $4,600 better off than the budget forecast.

Total expenditures for the first quarter were $349.400 and total income $308,300. The excess expenditures over income - $41,100 in 1967 — is not unusual in the first quarter, because of the heavy winter fuel oil bills. Last year the firstquarter gap between income and expenditures amounted to $49,100, although in 1965 the gap was only $28,000.

Compared with 1966 first-quarter operations, the items showing the biggest increases were repairs and maintenance (up $7,600), legal fees for school site and zoning court appeals (up $4,100), and water costs (up $1,200). In the maintenance budget, an accelerated hot-water line replacement program incurred expenditures of $18,500 in 1967, compared with $3,000 at the same time in 1966. On the other hand, expenditures for contract work and the trim paint programs were down in the first quarter of 1967 due to shortage of painters as against last

On the income side, revenue from monthly charges were up by $9,500 as the result of the increase that went into effect January 1, 1967. Increased income from sale of services to members and sales department fees were about offset by declines in earnings from interest and in other miscellaneous refinished. The building, which stands on In this laboratory quality control the site of the former municipal sewage disposal plant on Kenilworth Ave. opposite the Crescent Rd. entrance to the city, will be ready for occupancy in August, Shook estimated. Prior to that time, installation of telephone equipment must be completed by the telephone company—a five or six week job which was begun aminor details as putting plates over lighting fixtures, and covering access holes to telephones ducts must be completed. Finally the building must be given a thorough housecleaning before its approximately 70 future occupants can move in. Landscaping work will go on into the autumn, a more propitious time for transplanting

The laboratory will offer perhaps the most interesting of the functions to be located in the new building, and a major part of the work yet remaining before moving day will be installation of its extensive and complex equipment.

Band Concert on Sunday Inaugurates New Bandstand at Greenbelt Lake

A newly-constructed bandstand at Greenbelt Lake will be dedicated this Sunday, July 30, with the first of a series of free summer band concerts. The Greenbelt Concert Band will play, and music lovers are invited to bring their blankets and lawn chairs to the lake park to enjoy the occasion.

The dedication ceremony will begin at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Francis White, wife of the Greenbelt councilman, will sing the National Anthem, and Mayor Edgar Smith will give the dedication speech.

A light musical program will include selections from Porgy and Bess and Fiddler on the Roof, a group of marches (including the "John F. Kennedy March"), and other pieces.

The new bandstand is located in a natural hollow of the grassy area between the lake and the parking lot, and faces diagonally toward the playground. It is an unroofed, dual-level platform surrounded by a railing. Floodlights are mounted at the corners. The Public Works Dept. has just completed painting the floor oak brown and the trim white.

The inauguration of the bandstand was originally scheduled for the Fourth of July, but rain forced a cancellation of the concert. The platform has already been used informally as a stage, with the presentation last week of a program of dramatic skits by schoolchildren rarticipating in the county's summer playground program.

Three additional concerts are scheduled during August by The Rockville Concert Band, The Greenbelt Concert Band, and The High Point Band.

"Post" Article Amplified

Mr. Wolf Von Eckardt's account

in last Sunday's Washington Post

of the planning history of Greenbelt needs amplification. He stated that the master plan adopted by the city in 1965 should have been prepared at least a dozen years earlier and that now it was too late, implying that this was so because the plan had no legal

The truth is that there had been master plans for Greenbelt long before the city adopted its own master plan in March 1965. These master plans had been prepared by the federal government and later

by the Maryland National Capital

Park and Planning Commission.

As recently as June 1957, the MN-

CPPC had adopted a zoning and street plan for the area which called for low-density residential use of much of the vacant land in keeping with the original concept of Greenbelt. In the winter of 1962, the county commissioners

gave support to this master plan

when they denied a package of density apartment or commercial

Thus, the city of Greenbelt appeared to be amply protected by existing county zoning plans, and the creation of its own master plan did not seem urgent. In addition, covenants limiting densities had been placed on some of the land. The citizens of Greenbelt were not indifferent - but they believed they had reason to feel secure about the future of their town. Once it became obvious,

however, that county authorities

were abandoning the original con-

Unnecessary Inaccuracies

Inasmuch as I had something to do with Wolf Von Eckardt's writing an article on Greenbelt in the July 23d Sunday Washington Post, I feel both appalled and guilty to find so much misinformation on the current situation in Greenbelt and GHI. Mr. Charles Schwan, Mrs. Elaine Skolnik and I talked with Mr. Von Eckardt on the afternoon that he visited Greenbelt, and I know what we actually did say to him. Consequently, I simply cannot understand some of his state-

The point that irritates me most is his saying that Mr. Schwan "explained to me that 'it would not be feasible' to build moderate, let alone low-income, housing in his town. His cooperative demands high down payments to assure 'compatible' neighbors."

I heard Mr. Schwan explain at some length that GHI is presently engaged in building moderate income housing, using the same type of long-lasting quality materials as in the original brick homes. This was certainly different from what came out in the article.

Further, we told Von Eckardt that GHI regards the present high down payments as a problem, not as a desirable situation. We explained that these are required because all GHI units are under one governmental mortgage and individual houses cannot be refinanced upon sale. We added that GHI has been working for some time on possibilities for improving the methods of refinancing to reduce down payments. It is hard to understand how all this could be interpreted to mean that GHI "demands" the high down payments for the purpose of assuring "compatible" neighbors.

(Incidentally, I don't know what "compatible" neighbors are supposed to be, and to the best of my memory none of us even used the word in any connection. For that matter, Mr. Schwan did not refer to "my" town or "my" cooperative, as Von Eckardt has him doing in his indirect quote; in several years' acquaintance with Mr. Schwan I have never heard him use this phrase.)

We did take Von Eckardt on a walk along the inner walkways, showing him some of the attractive gardens, answering his questions as to monthly payments on various types of houses, variety of occupations among members, and so on. We told him that we felt that the variety of income levels and occupations in our community helps us get away from the suburban mentality.

There are all manner of inaccuracies in the article, and to cite them all would lengthen this letter too much. For example, the city of Greenbelt and GHI are confused. The pictures are strange, and not at all compatible with the article. No photos are shown of the original brick houses but instead one of an apartment house is referred to as a "planned home". The story describes the superblocks of original Greenbelt though the picture showing "super-blocks along a crescent-shaped plateau" is of Lakewood and Boxwood, built in 1958 and 1966 respectively, and without super-blocks!

Mr. Von Eckardt has a fine reputation as a critic of architecture and community planning. It is unfortunate that an otherwise excellent historical account was marred by unnecessary inaccuracies.

Run-Down on Proposed New Zoning Categories

The five proposed new zoning categories for addition to the Zoning Ordinance for the Maryland-Washington Regional District in Prince Georges County have drawn a mixed reception, according to a report in the Evening Star of June 30.

At a joint public hearing near the end of June, the county commissioners and the county planning board heard opposing points view from the real estate and building industries, on one hand, and from "planning and zoning watchdogs" on the other hand.

The proposed new zoning categories are the town sector, planned neighborhood, residential cluster, planned industrial park, and the R-A (residential-agricultural) for lots ranging from one to five acres.

The town sector zone would permit creation of "new towns" in areas exceeding 1,500 acres, while the planned neighborhood zone would allow for construction of smaller, self-sufficient communities on tracts ranging from 200 to 400

The cluster zone would aim to provide a variety of housing types and a flexibility of layout. The R-A zone would provide for largelot zoning in areas designated to remain basically rural. The industrial park zone would accommodate light industry on tracts of more than 50 acres.

Members of the real estate industry generally praised four of the proposed zones, but voiced objections to the R-A classification. Citizens, on the other hand, the Star article said, supported the R-A proposal and industrial park zoning but objected to the town sector and planned neighborhood zones.

The latter led by James Vance, William Avrutis, Mrs. Doris Phelps, and Julian Holmes, said that the planned neighborhood and town sector proposals would give the planning board the power to approve development plans. Such power, they maintain, should belong to the county commissioners.

New Maps Published

New street maps for Montgomery and Prince George's Counties, described as the most comprehensive county maps ever published, are now available at the two regional offices of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The fourcolor maps, which are printed on a scale of one inch to 3000 feet, reflect the most recent changes and additions to the bi-county areas system of streets and highways and indicate by color, the locations of parks, golf courses and institutional properties. Symbols are used to denote the locations of fire and rescue stations, police stations, hospitals schools, churches, synagogues and libraries. The maps also include subdivision and area names.

The configuration of Prince George's County made it necessary to print that map on two 44 by 40 inch sheets.

The cost of the new maps has been set at 50 cents per sheet, or a total of $1.50 for the set of three, covering both counties. A street index which will complement the maps is expected to be produced in the near future and will also be available at a cost of 50 cents. Copies of the new maps may be obtained at the Park and Planning Commission's Silver Spring Office, 8787 Georgia Ave., or at the Riverdale office, 6600 Kenilworth Ave. The Commission's office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY UPPER MARLBORO, MARYLAND

William S. Schmidt, Superintendent

Announcement

This applies to transfers of students who wish to attend a school outside of their attendance area.

Therefore, since the 1967-1968 school year officially begins on September 1 for school personnel, all requests for transfer must be postmarked not later than Monday, July 31. Requests should be forwarded to the Supervisor of Pupil Accounting, Board of Education, Upper Marlboro, Maryland 20870.

To Seek Maryland U Aid for Adult Center

Hugh D. Jascourt, Chairman, presented to council last month a report from the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, which asked to defer preparation of a recommendation to council concerning possible purchase of available facilities for an adult recreation center until after October, when professional assistance from the University of Maryland will become available. The report also stated opposition of the board to the change in name from Assistant Recreation Director to Youth Center Director, which was recently made by council action, and requested that the former title be dealt with long-range plans for development of the Greenbelt Regional Park, which is administered by the National Park Service. Because of the constantly diminishing areas of greenspace in this vicinity, the Board opposed any park development west of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway which does not "blend in with or make use of the natural terrain and features of the ground." Instead, they arged the development of a major nature center in that section of the park. They also opposed construction of a golf course to the east of the Parkway because this use of the land would require extensive deforestation. They recommended instead increasing the size of the proposed amphitheater for more extensive shows on the national capital area and its historic heritage

The major part of the report
